WHAT'S HAPPENING... THOUGHTS FROM THE SYNAGOGUE ADMINISTRATOR

My hope for Morristown Jewish Community Beit Yisrael.

Contrary to popular belief, we Jews are in the redemption business. Our mission is to hasten the day when the world will be redeemed by justice, mercy and peace. The time is short and the task grows ever more demanding. Even though we are explicit about our calling to pursue social justice, with tzedakah being one of the precepts we abide by, we seem to have lost confidence in our right to assert that Judaism demands something of us.

More often than not, the work of tikkun olam, repairing of our world, is relegated to a committee, rather than held as a central congregational imperative. At times it seems we've traded the "holiness track," with its attendant obligatory acts, for the "spirituality track," focused on religious feeling. Yet, what passes for "religious living" can become an exercise in self-absorption, if we address G-d but not the human condition.

While I've had many important, even sacred moments, in the course of my Jewish Communal life, the closest I've come to a religious community, intent on creating staircases between heaven and Earth, was at Congregation B'nai Israel in Boca Raton, Florida. This Temple engages its members and shapes them. Its lesson, as taught by Rabbi Richard Agler, in partnership with its lay leadership, is that social justice and Judaism are inextricably bound; to be a committed Jew, one must work at altering the shape of the world so that it will comport more closely with the one we imagine G-d has in mind. Of course, to approach the "mind of G-d," we study endlessly. I envision that we, at MJCBY, can emulate and even surpass the wonderful work that CBI accomplishes each year.

One reason, I learned, is because there is a demanding quality about our institution. Jews now tend to speak of rabbis as facilitators and empowerers, but I see our Rabbi Nesson and our congregation as demanders, as ones who insist: "Jews Study!"

and "Jews Act!" All one has to do is to come to our Shabbat service and listen as our Rabbi brings the voice of the Torah to life before your very eyes. I'm so proud to call him my colleague.

So how do we come to this place where we welcome and embrace congregants but then are reluctant to insist that they engage in religious actions, including prayer, study, and the work of social justice? G-d knows, we value our personal autonomy. We also value the power and possibility of community and communal responsibility. As for me, it is not the prospect of autonomy but the appeal of the collective that has kept me attached and committed. I dream of a synagogue that matters, that acknowledges its power to teach and transform, that creates Jewish potency out of Jewish potential. Our synagogue must exalt acts of kindness and social justice as sacred expressions. It needs to truly live each day within the tenets of Judaism...Torah, Avodah and Gemilut Chassidim. It tells Jews that to be a synagogue member is to face our G-d given obligations to reconstitute the world: both the world within the synagogue and the one that reaches beyond.

What I wish for, what I hope for, is that all of us at MJCBY accept the challenge. This call to righteousness. Let us heed G-d's call for us to be a blessing, for G-d has indeed commanded us to pursue social justice. Let's start today to formulate our plans as to how we can contribute to making social justice a year-long effort, a daily staple in our Jewish lives.

TODAH RABBAH & B'SHALOM.

The Judie Gerstein Early Learning Center

The children at Shalom Yeladim love this time of the year. During Fall and Spring we have a special gardening program run by Grow It Green Morristown. Farmer Tina and Farmer Megan teach the children how to take care of their own garden. They get to clean the garden, pull weeds, plant seeds and try different foods. Their favorite days are when they find earthworms. We actually had a special visitor from Macculloch Hall Historical Museum who came and taught us everything about earthworms. Her program was excellent and the children were amazed at the fact that earthworms have 5 hearts!

Registration for our summer program and for the 2019-20 school year are still open. Please feel free to contact me with any questions.

Religious School News Men's Club

Thank you to all students and teachers for an incredible year!! Our 120th Anniversary Year brought us together to explore MJCBY's past, celebrate in the present and envision how we will grow into the future! Prayer work (including music of our prayers and summer camps), shared days of learning through project based activities in each grade, holiday festivities and tikkun olam (repairing the world, acts of loving kindness and tzedakah initiatives), MJCBY Religious School brought together student families and congregants: nurturing personal growth, promoting social justice, deepening Jewish experiences and inspiring each of us to be our best!

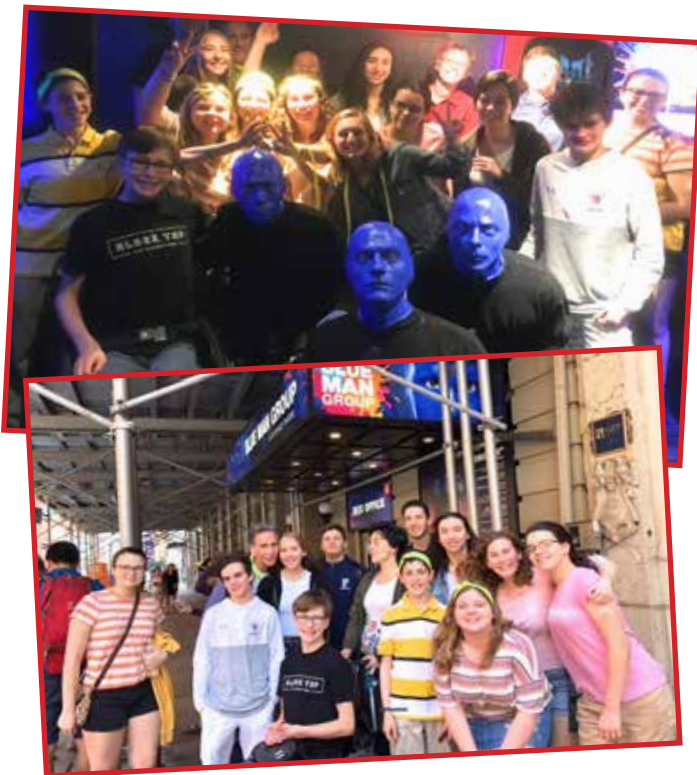

Thank you to our wonderful Madrichim (teacher assistants), the many parent volunteers and congregants who partnered with me throughout the year. I am excited about some new initiatives for September! In the meantime, I hope you read a good book, take a long walk and meet a new friend.

I will be waiting to welcome you home again in September!

Wishing all a summer of blessings,

Morah Karen Lilienfeld, Director of Education

Mazel Tov to Donna Gross as one of the recipients of the Garden State Region Women's League for Conservative Judaism "Women of Achievement Award" for outstanding service to Sisterhood, Synagogue, or Community.

The ceremony is on June 5 at Temple Beth Shalom in Livingston. www.wlcjregion.org

Donna joined Morristown Jewish Center Beit Yisrael with her husband, Gerry, in 2000. Immediately, she became actively involved in Sisterhood and never looked back.

Donna held many different positions within Sisterhood including fundraising, membership and treasurer. The icing on the cake was becoming co-president for 3 years along with Debbie Brody for 2 years and Dorothy Cohen for 1 year.

Currently, Donna is co-chair of our Judaica Gift shop and runs 3 successful Mah Jongg tournaments throughout the year.

For the Jewish Center, She is the editor and designer for our monthly newsletter.

For Donna, the most important use of her volunteerism is being part of our Chevra Kadisha, where she is part of one of the most holy mitzvot.

She hopes that her dedication and love for Judaism inspires others to take an active part in their Sisterhoods and Synagogues.
